West '85 grads revisit AP lit with Moskowitz

When Marcia Moskowitz bid farewell to her AP English students in 1985, she never dreamed they'd ask her to teach them again in 2020. Not new material— the same stuff. And not because they hadn't done well the first time. They'd blossomed into doctors, lawyers, psychologists, engineers and architects. Now they were all busy, successful professionals— why would they want to repeat a class they had all passed with flying colors 35 years ago?

Support needed for Light of Parkway

On Give STL Day (Thursday, May 6), the Parkway Alumni Association will ask you to support the Light of Parkway Awards. Help us recognize people like Salko Omerovic, a Parkway carpenter who immigrated from Bosnia two decades ago. He makes every day a good day for others.

You can give early to this campaign by visiting our Give STL Day webpage. Note: The Internet Explorer browser is not compatible with the website; please use Chrome or another browser.

Mortimer pens book about his favorite bug

Is he doing it for fame or just for the honey? The truth isn't complicated: Frank Mortimer [PWH '84] would probably be a beekeeping evangelist if he never sold another beeswax candle or pint of honey.
