

WORLD LANGUAGES

Here are some stress-free strategies for keeping up your language skills during this busy period. (From Omniglot, the online encyclopedia of writing systems and languages.)

Review regularly: short, frequent review sessions are more effective than long but infrequent ones.

Listen and learn: Listen to online radio stations in the language you are learning.

In a flash: Some language learners carry flashcards with them wherever they go and whip them out anytime they have a spare moment.

Have fun: Learn or make up games, songs, stories, tongue twisters, jokes or whatever you think of in the language you are learning.

Duolingo and Quizlet are also fun apps that aid language learning!

Google Classroom/Schoology: Encourage your student to check the site for class announcements and assignments. There are also links to Quizlet vocabulary practice and helpful videos.
